a study guide for Sunday school or prayer meetings. Myself, being a born again Christian, it answered a lot of questions for me and made me dig deeper into the word of God and answered a lot of questions that have been nagging at my soul since becoming saved. If you are searching for answers and are tired of opinions, you need this book, along with the King James version of the Bible.

As a pastor I have many people asking me questions about God. They say, for example: "How could God let the Columbine High School tragedy occur?" "Where was God when I was being sexually abused?" "Can my wife in heaven see me now?" "If God knows all my needs, what's the point of my telling them to Him in prayer?" In this book I turn the tables and let Jesus ask you the questions. Each of the thirteen chapters focuses on a question Jesus asked in the Gospels and that He wants you to answer today. Fasten your seat belt, because these are not soft questions. Some are challenging, others confrontational, and still others are humbling, personal, and breathtaking. All of them are crucial to your spiritual growth. I wrote this book with adult Bible study groups and Sunday school classes in mind. Each chapter concludes with a built-in discussion guide of about 10 follow-up questions you can use when your Bible study group or Sunday school class meets. So you don't have to worry about how to conduct your class sessions--it's all right here for you! Each chapter also includes with "Action Steps" that tell you what to do now that you have "wrestled" with Jesus' question. My goal in writing is simply to help you fall in love with Jesus.
