"Itinerary" - Or: Every Human Being has ... Von Miki101.Micha ... the own "itinerary" for his or her road of life. Regina, a young American has made her outing as transgender (female-to-male) three years ago, and since then the relationship with his older sister, Katrina, has gone bad. Roger - as she calls herself now - wants to mend this strap between them, and he asks her to go with him on a vacation to the Far East. Afraid that she won't come along, Roger leaves out one small detail which he tells her only on the beautiful Pacific Island of Guam, before going on to Bangkok: He is directed there for the surgery to "make him a man". On Guam they will finally speak about their gender orientation, and it will be Roger to have the bigger surprise of the voyage... A very interesting short story about what makes a man a man or a woman a woman - and who loves whom, set in the exotic Guam island. I read it with very much delight and will be looking for other stories by this author.

Kurzbeschreibung Since coming out as transgender (female-to-male) three years ago, Rogers relationship with his older sister, Katrina, has become distant and awkward. Wanting nothing more than to rekindle the closeness they shared as children, he surprises her with a vacation to the Far East. Afraid that she won't come along, Roger leaves out one small detail: he has an appointment for surgery in Thailand.
