Von Geoffrey Parrinder : Jesus in the Qur'an (Makers of the Muslim World) before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Jesus in the Qur'an (Makers of the Muslim World):

The best comparitive book around!Von Philip PowellI have spent a substantial amount of time researching Islam and Christianity, specifically the similarities between the two and this is by far the best comparitive book I am found. The objectiveness with which the author approaches this obviously sensitive subject is unparalleled. The book is written to near perfection from a very religious standpoint, as Parrinder is a Methodist minister, but his personal beliefs in no way are presented in the work. I very strongly recommend this book to anyone interested in Jesus or Islam, it has provided me with more knowledge and explanation than I have found anywhere else combined. 0 von 2 Kunden fanden die folgende Rezension hilfreich. lacking in research Von Ein Kunde It's commendable that Parrinder's approach is to reconcile the understanding of Jesus in the context of the Muslim and Christian community. However, his book contains several errors, presumably as his opinions were based predominantly on the interpretation of the Qur'an by non-native Arabic speaking persons. Certain conclusions made, especially with regards to Muhammad, Jesus and the Christian doctrine of the holy trinity as set out in the Qur'an, were ill researched and factually incorrect. I would recommend readers to practice caution in reading this book and making conclusions based purely on it.

Kurzbeschreibung Until recent times Islam's holy book has not been widely accessible to the Christian world, and consequently teachings about Jesus have received little attention. In Jesus in the Quran, written for both Christians and Muslims, for specialists as well as general readers, Parrinder offers a study of Quranic teachings about the birth, life, work, death and resurrection of Jesus. Parrinder explores all ninety-three verses in the Quran in which Jesus is mentioned, setting them in the context of the work as a whole and drawing parallels with the Christian gospels, wherever possible.
