Pregnancy required?Von Ein KundeCarissa Day finally comes back to Carramer, pregnant and abandoned by the father of the baby. She wants to set up her own BB when she meets her teenage crush Eduard de Marigny.He just wanted to relax for a few days when he is faced with Carissa. He always cared for her but she was so young and now he feels that he has no right to woo her because he cannot father any children. I liked the story and it is well written but sometimes it could have been a bit more exciting. I gave it four stars because at some points I did cry.

Kurzbeschreibung After many years, Karissa has finally returned to the Caramel kingdom to secure her dream job of managing a boardinghouse. Upon her arrival, she meets the son of a major noble family. This very man was her first love and had cruelly rejected her affection. Painful emotions, unhealed by time, run wild in her heart. As she's reeling from this encounter, she learns something even more unsettling: he's the owner of the boardinghouse that she's been hired to run.
