

[Ebook pdf] The Obersalzberg - Hitlers Home, A guide to explore the history of a mountain (English Edition)

The Obersalzberg - Hitlers Home, A guide to explore the history of a mountain (English Edition)

Von John Provan

*Download PDF | ePub | DOC | audiobook | ebooks

DOWNLOAD

READ ONLINE

Produktinformation -Verkaufsrang: #717920 in eBooksVerffentlicht am: 2011-06-17Erscheinungsdatum: 2011-06-17File Name: B005MU9DMO | File size: 54.Mb

Von John Provan : The Obersalzberg - Hitlers Home, A guide to explore the history of a mountain (English Edition) before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised The Obersalzberg - Hitlers Home, A guide to explore the history of a mountain (English Edition):

KundenrezensionenHilfreichste Kundenrezensionen0 von 0 Kunden fanden die folgende Rezension hilfreich. Obersalzberg auf EnglischVon Joachim H.John Provan ist ein amerikanischer Historiker mit enormen Wissen ber Architektur und Luftfahrt des Dritten Reiches. In diesem Buch beschreibt er den Obersalzberg, wobei ein kleiner Abschnitt "Der Weg zum Berg" heit und folgerichtig die auf der Strecke von Mnchen zum Osb liegenden Nazibauten und Haltepunkte beschreibt und abbildet (z.Bsp. Rasthaus Chiemsee). Auch im nheren Umland (Flugplatz Ainring-Mitterfelden, Kaserne in der Strub usw) findet Mr. Provan interessante Plätze und Gebäude. Der Hauptteil Obersalzberg beginnt mit einem kurzen Abriß, wie Hitler für sich diesen idyllischen Berg "entdeckte". Dann gibt es eine architektonisch geprägte Reise zu den "wichtigsten" Gebäuden auf dem Berg, die bekanntlich durch Bormann fast vollständig bebaut und betoniert wurde. Erstaunliches Detailwissen macht das Lesen des Buches sehr kurzweilig, die Bilder sind (obwohl auf dem Kindle gelesen) sehr gut und zahlreich. Wer vom Plenk-Verlag das eine oder andere Osb-Buch in seinem Schrank stehen hat, wird nur wenig Neues erfahren...man findet aber jede Menge kleiner Details, die auch dem "Informierten" die Gelegenheit geben, etwas Neues zu lernen. Gute Englischkenntnisse sind unbedingt notwendig. Ansonsten eine klare Kaufempfehlung. PS: Viele Bilder aus dem Buch sind auch auf der Webseite [...] zu finden.

Kurzbeschreibung A guide to explore the history of a mountain including GPS coordinates !The architecture of the Third Reich has long been a subject of interest to historians throughout the world. Many books have addressed the topic; however, none have dealt in depth, with what may well be, the largest construction undertaken during the Third Reich period. This project was the construction of Adolf Hitler's home and adjoining complexes on the Obersalzberg Mountain, in southern Germany, as well as the surrounding area. Since this period in German history remains a subject of great discussion, especially since Germany's re-unification; this book will not deal with the political or moral questions surrounding the topic. This book is strictly intended to shed some light on the secrets of Hitler's mountain, whose remains and ruins are quickly disappearing from the landscape. John Provan III was born in 1956, in Steubenville, Ohio. His father, an Air Force Chief Master-Sergeant John Provan Jr., who was assigned to Germany for almost 20 years, where he grew up in the Kaiserslautern, Sembach and Rhein-Main areas. John has collected for more than 35 years and has amassed the largest private library on LTA, with over 1,200 books and 20,000 photos. His primary interest has evolved though, in now preserving the history of American Forces in Germany. Here alone, he has obtained some 250,000 images, films and sound recordings from 1945, to present Provan obtained his B.A. from the University of Maryland in 1979. He wrote his M.A. thesis on the German Airship during World War One and PhD thesis on the German Airship sheds, both degrees from the University of Darmstadt. Dr. Provan has organized numerous exhibits and/or written books on various topics, to include: Thomas Edison, 100th anniversary of the Wright brothers, the Dornier Do-X, AFN-the American Forces Network, the Kinderlifts and the Berlin Airlift. He has also appeared on several TV documentaries; for the History Channel, HR, ZDF, AE and AFN.

Kurzbeschreibung A guide to explore the history of a mountain including GPS coordinates !The architecture of the Third Reich has long been a subject of interest to historians throughout the world. Many books have addressed the topic; however, none have dealt in depth, with what may well be, the largest construction undertaken during the Third Reich period. This project was the construction of Adolf Hitler's home and adjoining complexes on the Obersalzberg Mountain, in southern Germany, as well as the surrounding area. Since this period in German history remains a subject of great discussion, especially since Germany's re-unification; this book will not deal with the political or moral questions surrounding the topic. This book is strictly intended to shed some light on the secrets of Hitler's mountain, whose remains and ruins are quickly disappearing from the landscape. John Provan III was born in 1956, in Steubenville, Ohio. His father, an Air Force Chief Master-Sergeant John Provan Jr., who was assigned to Germany for almost 20 years, where he grew up in the Kaiserslautern, Sembach and Rhein-Main areas. John has collected for more than 35 years and has amassed the largest private library on LTA, with over 1,200 books and 20,000 photos. His primary interest has evolved though, in now preserving the history of American Forces in Germany. Here alone, he has obtained some 250,000 images, films and sound recordings from 1945, to present Provan obtained his B.A. from the University of Maryland in 1979. He wrote his M.A. thesis on the German Airship during World War One and PhD thesis on the German Airship sheds, both degrees from the University of Darmstadt. Dr. Provan has organized numerous exhibits and/or written books on various topics, to include: Thomas Edison, 100th anniversary of the Wright brothers, the Dornier Do-X, AFN-the American Forces Network, the Kinderlifts and the Berlin Airlift. He has also appeared on several TV documentaries; for the History Channel, HR, ZDF, AE and AFN.