Resurrection of Clifford McGinnis' by John and Martha McGinnis, we are given an enormous gift of a very special universe from writers with a very special and powerful vision. This vision is breathtaking in its power and, most of all, its simplicity. John and Martha McGinnis give us a world/universe with no divisions. The world they present is not divided into a material and spiritual dimension, not divided into an earthly and heavenly dimension, and not divided into a past-present-future separation. This is the universe of love, which never divides. In this world one can talk with the luminaries of the past, talk with the angels in heaven and, in this specific book, talk with a son who has died at the age of 26, and now is in heaven. Yes, Clifford McGinnis is (notice I don't write 'was') the very real son of John and Martha McGinnis, who really died on July 7, 2015 ' about 8 months ago. In this amazing book, psychic medium Martha McGinnis (with husband John acting as transcriber) communicates with her son in heaven, and is able to communicate with God Himself/Herself. This is the undivided universe which in its pure unity grants all things as possible. What is fascinating is that this is also the very real story of a child who grows into a man, this being Clifford McGinnis. He was in his earthly existence a brilliant child and an evolving brilliant but flawed human being who struggled to find himself. This struggle of his parents to understand and appreciate the complexity of their son Clifford is most enlightening, especially to anyone who has struggled to understand and love a complex son or daughter. In the wonderful universe created by the McGinnis authors, the dead persons in our past are available to communicate with us on earth and in heaven, and help us heal and experience love here on earth. Clifford himself is, for example, able to help Martha McGinnis heal from her deep grief over the earthly death of her son. This is a world written about that I believe is possible when we become open to all that is, for 'what is' is everything. This great 'is' is Love. God is Love. Deus caritas est. Raymond Keen ' author of 'Love Poems for Cannibals' and 'The Private and Public Life of King Able'

Kurzbeschreibung In the summer of 2015, Clifford McGinnis, son of psychic medium Martha McGinnis, passed into the next life at the age of 26. But he came back almost immediately as a new and improved version of himself, full of original information about the afterlife. In this book of channeled readings, Clifford, who had remarkable psychic abilities himself, describes the enormous shift in consciousness now taking place in the world. And in the last spiritual reading in this book, the Creator offers words of consolation to all people who have lost loved ones like our son Clifford: I have created another angel to watch over you and understand you like no other. He has become your angel who knows your sorrows. Your relationship is not overjust changed. You can tell others that even babies who die stay with their families. Each such event is an occasion for greater spiritual growth. Growth doesnt come only from joy; growth also comes from loss, sorrow, and a broken heart. Remember he is still with you. He is with you, and he is with me. I am taking very good care of him. He is warm, happy, light, joyous, and is learning more than he ever thought he could learn. He now has many options opening up to him. I SEND YOU PEACE. Academic writers across the world, quoted inside the cover of this book, praise the channeled readings of John, Martha and Clifford McGinnis. We share them with others to reaffirm the promise that death shall have no dominion.
