Amerikaner auf groer RadtourVon Andreas Olbrich-BaumannDieses Buch ist fr Kulturinteressierte sehr zu empfehlen und zwar aus mehreren Grnden: 1. Culture clash! Amerikaner erfahren, wie die Welt "unter ihnen" wirklich aussieht. Sie werden konfrontiert mit Armut und fast uneingeschrnkter Hilfsbereitschaft und Freundlichkeit und dass man auch andere Sprachen, Gesten und Weltanschauungen lernen muss. Manchmal ist Travis herrlich naiv!2. Es ist eine Reisebeschreibung, die sehr ausfhrlich auf die einzelnen Landstriche und die kulturellen Verschiedenheiten eingeht, was man bei manchen Weltumradelungsbcchern in dieser Detailgenauigkeit vermisst.3. Das erste Kapitel, die genaue Planung und Vorbereitung auf die Reise ist auch sehr lieb geschrieben. Man merkt: Hobbyradler gehen auf groe Tour (Sie nehmen auch Campingsessel mit!!!).Es ist auch herrlich erfrischend, wenn Travis auf seine Fehler, die er immer wieder macht, ganz ausfhrlich eingeht. Man kann wunderbar mitleiden!Eine sehr realistische Beschreibung und wunderbar naiv!

Dare to live a dream! Tim and Cindie Travis accomplish the unthinkable, in an unprecedented worldwide cycling adventure. Their clever story explores the depths of humanity, as they expose themselves to life's perils on roads less travelled. This story is written as it happens, on the road. Digital technology and dot com know-how are in harmony with minimalist living. The result is salt-of-the-earth drama related on the fly through an internet journal, culminating in a series of captivating true stories. There is a winning combination of integrity and know-how, with a relaxing informal prose, become informative non-fiction that reads like a novel.This first book progresses from the shedding of a traditional lifestyle to discoveries made on their bicycle journey from Arizona, USA to Panama City, Panama. On bicycle, the Travis' are exposed to the ground level of society, an experience few outsiders will ever know.Along the way, the Travis' witness a religious pilgrimage in Chalma, Mexico, visited ancient Aztec and Mayan ruins, were attacked by an airplane spraying pesticides in Guatemala and saw alligators, scarlet Macaws and three-toed sloths in the jungles and cloud forests of Costa Rica. This is a great addition to your high adventure travel collection.
